NAME*Maj. Sara Kershaw*UNIT*27th Airlift Squadron executive officer*TIME IN SERVICE*12 years*TIME ON STATION*3 years*SIGNIFICANT ACTION

Kershaw displays exceptional administrative and leadership abilities. With limited time and scarce resources, Kershaw's keen eye for detail ensures unit performance reports are on time and of the utmost quality. Kershaw also administers the Management Internal Control Toolset program for two squadrons. She does all of this as a traditional Reservist serving less than 10 days per month.

Base C-130J's flex muscle at exercise

By Senior Airman Scott Poe

19th Airlift Wing Public Affairs

The 41st, 48th and 61st Airlift Squadrons delivered Herculean muscle to Operation Dragon Spear Aug. 6.

Dragon Spear was one of the most complex joint-training exercises in more than a decade. The Joint Force Exercise at the U.S. Army's National Training Center on Fort Irwin, Calif., included more than 1,500 fighting forces from XVIII Airborne Corps; 82nd Airborne Division; 75th Ranger Regiment; 3rd Battalion, 10th Special Forces Group (Airborne); and the U.S. Air Force.

Joint Forcible Entry exercises train the Global Response Force and demonstrate their readiness to deploy and fight globally within hours as a Joint force. Joint Force Exercise Dragon Spear focused upon the interoperability, interdependence and integration of Conventional and Special Operations Forces in a complex dynamic combat scenario.

March Air Reserve Base was used as a staging ground for aircraft, paratroopers and heavy equipment. C-130's and C-17's were used to carry and drop more than 600 paratroopers from the Army's 2nd Brigade Combat Team, 82nd Airborne Division. The cargo planes also delivered more than 30 Army assets such as militarized all-terrain vehicles, howitzers and M1126 Stryker combat vehicles.

Not only was the mission of the C-130's to deliver equipment and personnel during the exercise, but also to sustain the Army after their initial needs were met, such as re-supply, follow-on forces and to medevac injured personnel.

"This was new territory," said Lt. Col. Thomas Lankford, 41st Airlift Squadron commander. "The Army has never done an airborne assault like that there before and we have never executed out of that location before."

The new environment and the opportunity for Team Little Rock to work with sister services provided a unique learning experience for the Airmen.

"This exercise was a great experience for the Airmen because it was different," said Lankford. "It was phenomenal training because it got everyone out of their comfort zones, and we don't always get the opportunity to train with the Army and their equipment."

Lankford went on to explain that day-to-day training revolves around airdrops. "We've been deployed back-to-back and the squadron has been very combat-focused in the last year, so what we have to do is get back to the basics- get back to the airdrop missions. It's a core competency and something the Army expects us to be good at," he said.

With most exercises there are areas of improvement identified and lessons learned,

Top 10 reasons I'll Miss AMC

By Gen. Darren McDew

Air Mobility Command

SCOTT AIR FORCE BASE, Ill. – After spending more than a year leading the outstanding active duty, guard, reserve and civilian Airmen at Air Mobility Command, my time with you has come to an end. While I am incredibly honored to have been selected to continue serving our nation at U.S. Transportation Command, I cannot help but reflect on my time with the AMC community with fondness and nostalgia. I've had the opportunity to meet some of the most amazing Airmen in the U.S. Air Force, and witness firsthand the extraordinary way you accomplish your missions, with such dedication and professionalism. I look forward to being able to witness you rise to the future challenges you will undoubtedly encounter, and I eagerly anticipate applauding your inevitable successes.

Gen. Darren McDew

With that said, I'd like to share with you a few of things that made AMC such a special assignment for me.

10. AMC. Everywhere! Mobility Airmen are global. It is such a great privilege to watch you enable airpower all over the world. You are the reason behind global reach.

9. Surrounded by Blue. There is no better sense of community than being surrounded by a sea of Air Force Blues (and Airman Battle Uniforms).

8. Oreo Cookies and Dove Chocolate. Every man has his weakness, and my front office team knew how to exploit mine. They are the fuel behind the fire that is AMC. They know how to get things done, even it means assuring the commander has that extra sugar push to get through the day.

7. Community. AMC has the most dedicated civic partners. Never before have I witnessed such understanding and undying support from such an exceptional community.

6. Airpower...From the Ground Up! No one does it like you do. Whether it's fighting Ebola, bringing relief to earthquake victims, or opening an airfield for operations within hours, you make your mark on the world.

Letter to Airmen: Farewell

By Lt. Gen. Carlton D. Everhart

18th Air Force

SCOTT AIR FORCE BASE, Ill. – Mobility Airmen,

It was just over a year ago I assumed command of 18th Air Force, and it has been a humbling and challenging, but also gratifying, experience. Looking back at this past year, I am thoroughly impressed and amazed by what you have been able to accomplish every day. Thank you for your continuing diligence and excellence as you carry out our vital worldwide mission.

Your dedication and professionalism during my tenure as 18th Air Force commander led to more than 87,000 sorties. I watched as you delivered supplies to refugees trapped on Mt. Sinjar in Iraq, fueled the air war over Syria, and delivered aid to the people of Nepal following the catastrophic earthquake that struck their country. No matter what job or position you hold, all of you have played an important role in the 18th Air Force mission and give it its ability to deliver hope, fuel the fight and bring our people home safe.

In my time as your commander, I never once heard anyone say, "We can't do it." You have always found a way to accomplish the mission. By doing so, every commander and warfighter we serve knows that, when needed, 18th Air Force will always be there.

Lt. Gen.
Carlton D. Everhart

You have proven consistently that bold, innovative Airmen are the Air Force's number one resource. It is because of you that the question, "can we get it there?" never comes up.

Thank you for all you have done and all you continue to do every day. It has been my honor to serve with you as the 18th Air Force Commander, and I look forward to serving with you as Commander, Air Mobility Command.

EXPEDITE!

Reasons

5. The View. Every time I look out my window at the historic Scott Field and the legacy walk of fame I am reminded of AMC's great history and the leaders who paved the way.

4. Lunch with Airmen. The best part ... hands down.

3. AE. Explaining to those unaware AE does not stand for a TV channel or a clothing line. Aeromedical Evacuation is our mission. AMC Airmen saves lives.

2. The balcony brief. The most appropriately named briefing I've ever been to. It's literally on a "balcony." More importantly, I have the opportunity to sit in the 618th Air Operations Center and listen to your weekly accomplishments. What have you not done?

1. Mobility Airmen. AMC has the best in the business. It's been an honor and a privilege being your commander. Thank You.

Nurse assistant training offered for 15 spouses

By Senior Airman Harry Brexel

19th Airlift Wing Public Affairs

The Air Force Aid Society Spouse Employment Training Program has granted the Little Rock Air Force Base Airman & Family Readiness Center additional funding to provide 15 fully paid slots to attend the Arkansas Nursing Assistant Academy.

All applications are due by Tuesday, Aug. 18, at 4:30 p.m. All applicants will be notified of selection or non-selection.

The 13-day long nursing assistant course begins on Aug. 26, 2015 and includes 90 hours of instruction. Classes will be held at 425 North University Avenue in Little Rock.

In early 2015, the A&FRC had ten slots to the academy that filled up completely. All of the students graduated, so the Air Force Aid Society allotted more slots specifically for spouses at Little Rock AFB.

"This is a great opportunity for spouses," said Michael Rudisill, the 19th Force Support Squadron

A&FRC employment coordinator. "There are approximately 23 hospitals and clinics within 75 miles of the base."

All active-duty Air Force spouses are eligible to apply for the grant. Spouses of Arkansas Air National Guard or Reserve Airmen are also eligible if the Airmen are currently on Title 10 orders for more than 15 days.

The grant covers the cost of instruction, State of Arkansas Certification, processing fees, scrubs and a gait belt. The Arkansas Nursing Assistant Academy is approved by the Arkansas State Board of Private Career Education to operate a certified nursing assistant school.

If you are eligible and wish to enter, pick up an application from the A&FRC inside the Walters Community Support Center on Canon Drive. They are open Monday through Friday from 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

For more information, the A&FRC can be reached at (501) 987-2667.

Ethics rules govern gift card, cash

Courtesy Base Legal Office

In our previous articles on gifts from outside sources, we have discussed the general rules, common exclusions (things that don't legally count as a "gift"), common exceptions (gifts that you can legally accept under limited circumstances), and what to do with a gift when none of those apply.

This time we will talk about the restriction on cash gifts from outside sources. The Standards of Conduct (5 C.F.R. § 2635.204(a)) allows acceptance of gifts from prohibited sources or gifts given based on the official position of the employee valued at $20 or less, with no more than $50 in total gifts from any single source per year. However, that same section prohibits gifts of cash altogether, even if $20 or less.

That raises a big question though: what is meant by "cash"? Does it include gift cards? The answer depends on the type of gift card. Store gift cards may be accepted under the $20/$50 exception. To count as a store gift card, the card must only be usable with a single merchant or affiliated group of merchants. Furthermore, the gift card cannot allow the holder to withdraw cash from an ATM. Finally, it doesn't matter how many items the store has, so long as you're limited to spending your money there.

However, general-use pre-paid cards count as cash and cannot be accepted under the $20/$50 exception, regardless of their value. If you can spend the money anywhere that accepts that kind of prepaid card (e.g., Visa MasterCard, or American Express), the card is treated as cash. For a more in-depth discussion of these rules, please read Office of Government Ethics Legal Advisory LA-15-04.

As a reminder: if you dispose of an improper gift in accordance with the rules, either on your own initiative or on the advice of your ethics counselor, 5 C.F.R. § 205(c) states that you won't be found to have improperly accepted an unsolicited gift from an outside source.

If you have any questions regarding gifts from outside sources, please visit the Little Rock AFB Legal Office located at 1250 Thomas Avenue, Suite 222, or call 501-987-7886.

which is where training to adapt and overcome is put into play.

"The mission was successful, but not without a few hiccups," said Lankford. "But that's good training too; because now we have to figure out how to flex and continue sustaining the Army."

"The Airmen for Team Little Rock who were involved with planning and execution performed extremely well," said Lankford. "The Army leadership was extremely happy with the mission accomplishment. It was a great team effort and I'm glad we were a part of Dragon Spear."

Keep eye on spotting, backing safety

Statistics show that nearly a quarter of all deaths involving vehicles at work happen when the vehicle is reversing ... usually because the driver or pedestrian did not pay attention.

The role of a spotter is to minimize and eliminate potential backing and equipment incidents by communicating with a driver the hazards present in their operating environment.

The purpose of a spotter is to expand the driver's sense for right, left, front, and rear space cushions

Spotter Situations

- When backing any vehicle;
- Where negotiating forward or backward turns with tight side clearances;
- Where overhead clearances are low or uncertain;
- When the driver's view is obstructed;
- When objects in the area are within equipment's blind spots; and
- Visibility is limited or impaired.

A blind spot is:

- Any area a driver of a vehicle or piece of equipment is not looking or cannot see;
- Any area a spotter is not looking or cannot see; and
- Created by obstructions, lighting conditions, weather conditions and vehicle design.
- Blind spots are determined for equipment by walking out prior to use, if the driver can't see your feet you are in the blind spot.
- Driver to spotter communication is critical:
 - It allows driver to determine spotter capability;
 - It ensures both parties understand the signals that will be used;
 - Discussion should take place pre-task to identify hazards;
 - At night, use flashlights/wands to help the driver see you;
 - In congested or tight areas, use more than one spotter if necessary; and
 - Stop the backing process and regroup if required.

LRAFB HISTORY FAST FACT

55 DAYS TO GO UNTIL LRAFB TURNS 60!

On August 10, 1964, the first B-58 Hustler arrived at Little Rock AFB, from Carswell Air Force Base, Texas. Local leadership, including Governor Orval Faibus, welcomed the first B-58 at 10 a.m. that morning when a pilot, assigned to the 43rd Bombardment Wing, landed the "Pulaski Hustler." The B-58 was capable of sustained Mach 2 supersonic flight and could reach altitudes above 60,000 feet. During the remainder of August 1964, the entire fleet of Hustlers relocated to Central Arkansas. The 43rd BW was the first wing equipped with the Hustler and operated the aircraft for 10 years. From 1960 to 1970, crews set many speed and distance records receiving the Mackay Trophy, Thompson Trophy and Bendix Trophy for their achievements. In 1970, the US Air Force ended the B-58 mission, retiring Little Rock's the final B-58s.
