Team Little Rock Members celebrated Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender Pride Month with an information fair June 15 at the Walters Community Support Center on Little Rock Air Force Base.

The Don't Ask, Don't Tell policy was repealed September 2011, and the Defense of Marriage Act was ruled unconstitutional June 2013. Prior to these changes, service members and federal employees who were part of the LGBT community didn't have the same rights as heterosexual marriages, such as living in base housing and medical and survivor benefits.

"The main focus of the event was to provide the base with contacts to LGBT organizations," said Tech Sgt. Jacqueline Harris, 19th Maintenance Squadron Munitions Flight Material section chief. "A lot of people don't know about the local organizations; our hope was to spread awareness of them."

Representatives from the Human Rights Campaign and Central Arkansas Pride presented information for the Hearts of our heroes

By Airman 1st Class Codie Collins
19th Airlift Wing Public Affairs

"It was a normal day when we got the phone call," said Tristan Ellis, a Gold Star daughter. "I didn't understand because I was only 5 years old. I didn't want to believe I no longer had a daddy."

When a service member joins; they join willing to make sacrifices. A family member's only choice is to support.

For Gold Star families, that sacrifice is permanent.

Hearts of Our Heroes Camp is a camp designed specifically for the children of Arkansas fallen service members. This week long camp provides children not only an opportunity to learn, explore and create memories, but also meet other military children who understand the reality of not having a parent or sibling present due to their ultimate sacrifice for our country.

The camp took place June 12-16 at the Arkansas 4-H center. Children ages 9 through 17 participated in different activities such as concerts, obstacle courses and team building exercises.

The Hearts of Our Heroes Camp is a joint effort between Arkansas Survivor Outreach Services, the Arkansas Gold Star Mothers and Arkansas Run for the Fallen.

"Knowing there are people looking out for me is something special," Ellis said. "As a Gold Star kid you don't really know how to deal with your emotions. Finding others who are going through the same things help."

Former Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Mark A. Welsh III told attendees at an Air Education Training Command Senior Leader Conference one priority of the Air Force is to develop and care for Airmen and their families.

Airmen from Little Rock Air Force Base ensured that priority was met when a group volunteered at the Hearts for Our Heroes Camp June 15, 2017.

The volunteers spent a day as battle buddies for Gold Star children zip lining, competing in different games and spending one-on-one time with the kids.

"It's important service members acknowledge Gold Star members' sacrifices," said Airman 1st Class Dakota Storm Nichols, a volunteer from the 19th Security Forces Squadron. "We need to provide support for those who remain and let them know their loved ones are not forgotten. Gold Star members have given a large part of their lives for this country and we need to take care of them."

Losing a family member is hard, but these children do not have to go through it alone. Hearts of Our Heroes camp ensures those children have a place to connect with others who understand.

What it takes to be Little Rock AFB firefighter

19TH AIRLIFT WING PUBLIC AFFAIRS

Working 24-hour shifts, donning 50 to 70 pounds of equipment in seconds and responding to life threatening situations without hesitation is a glimpse into what it takes to be a 19th Civil Engineer Squadron Fire Department firefighter.

After completing four months of rigorous technical training, a gratifying career protecting the U.S Air Force community and its resources around the globe will likely follow.

"It takes heart and dedication to become a firefighter," said Staff Sgt. Justin Caldwell, 19th CES Fire Protection journeyman. "It's a physically demanding job — I'm not a big guy but there are plenty of people my size or bigger that can do it as long as they have the drive."

For a Little Rock AFB firefighter, an average day consists of maintaining an unparalleled 24-hour mental and physical readiness.

"It's our lifestyle," said Airman 1st Class Tevado Beckford, 19th CES Fire Protection apprentice, "People's lives are in our hands so we have to go the extra mile. We have to have a drive to push ourselves to become physically and mentally stronger."

To stay physically fit, the Airmen trade in their firehose for dumbbells in the department's gym. They also perform physical training tailored to improving their emergency response duties by incorporating their tools and practices in work outs.

The firefighters also conduct live-fire training and drills to keep their skill set sharp.

Live-fire training gives the firefighters a controlled environment to extinguish an unpredictable element, while drills and exercises help them sustain a rapid response time.

Fighters also ensure their equipment and vehicles are fully operable by performing weekly inspection checks.

Once all tasks are complete, the Airmen have time to unwind in the department's dormitories, living area or kitchen. The atmosphere is relaxed yet on a moment's notice, the emergency alarm could sound making the department come alive as Airmen don their trousers, coats, boots and gloves in seconds.

"I always tell them once you hear the alarm go off act like you're going to your family's house," Caldwell said. "You want the best people to be on call for your family so make sure you do that for everyone else on this base."

Although their job requires an unparalleled dedication, morale is never lacking as the Airmen lean on each other for support.

"We spend 24 hours here so we grow to know each other beyond the uniform — we are a family," Caldwell said.

LGBT community on getting involved with the movement and updates on LGBT current laws.

“We wanted to let the LGBT community and allies know that they do have a support system in the area,” said Airman 1st Class Brandy Preston, 19th Operations Support Squadron Aircrew Flight Equipment technician.

The support from the Air Force community has grown for LGBT service members in the seven years since the repeal of DADT, and continues to improve their quality of life.

“I honestly never thought I’d see events and opportunities like this during my military career,” Harris said. “I thought I would retire and finally be able to be myself.”

For more information about the LGBT community and opportunities, contact the 19th Airlift Wing Military Equal Opportunity Office at 501-987-8629.

Zack Baker, Arkansas Pride volunteer, explains the program to a Team Little Rock member June 15 at the Walters Community Support Center on Little Rock Air Force Base. Representatives from the Human Rights Campaign and Central Arkansas Pride presented information for the Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender community on getting involved with the movement and updates on LGBT current laws.

Team Little Rock Members celebrated Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender Pride Month with an information fair June 15 at the Walters Community Support Center on Little Rock Air Force Base. The support from the Air Force community has grown for LGBT service members in the five years since the repeal of Don't Ask, Don't Tell, and continues to improve their quality of life.

2nd Annual Liberty Fest

By Staff Sgt. Kaylee Clark
19th Airlift Wing Public Affairs

The second annual Liberty Fest will be held July 3 near the large base lake at Little Rock Air Force Base.

Members with base access can attend this family-friendly free event that will host a multitude of events and activities to include a firework show at dusk.

“Full of free entertainment and activities for everyone, Liberty Fest is arguably the best event we host all year,” said Candice Boston, 19th Force Support Squadron marketing director.

SCHEDULE OF EVENTS

- 4 p.m.: Event Begins
- 4 p.m.: Over the Top Art

- 4 - 7:30 p.m.: Canoeing & Kayaking
- 5 - 5:30 p.m.: Patriotic Speeches
- 5:30 - 6:30 p.m.: Patriotic Bike Parade
- 7 - 8:30 p.m.: Whistlin’ Dixie Concert
- 8:30 p.m.: 19 AW/CC closing comments
- 9 pm: Fireworks

Booster clubs from squadrons around base will be selling refreshments and squadron merchandise throughout the day. The food and squadron vendors will be accepting cash only.

“Our goal is to improve quality of life, provide quality entertainment and strengthen community bonds. Boston said. “And special events like Liberty Fest provide us the opportunity to do just that.”
